2 + MONDAY + 29th APRIL + 2019

NORTH EAST COLORS

Adopt principles of Gita in management: VC

Agartala, Apr 28: "Today India needs to adopt the principles and practices of management theories from Grita for a sustainable future", says Prof. V L Dhararkar, Vice Chancellor of Tripura University, The Department of Business Management, Tripura University organized Envision 2019, the annual farewell programme of the outgoing batches of MBA and BBA students on Saturday 27th April.

This event has become a hallmark of the department which is striving refentlessly in proliferating management education in the entire North East. In this third consecutive year of the programme Dr. Debarshi Mukherjee, HOD welcomed all the granduating students of the department and reminded them to become worthy of the degree as they are going to become the trailblazers not only of the department but of the university and their respective families as well. "This department lives by a code, the code of charming creative, confident and compassionate managers of tomorrow," said Dr. Mukherjee in his welcome address. He also appreciated the efforts of the faculty members and continuous support of the University administration which has resulted in stupendous students' placement record achieved by the versity administration which has been done students' placement record achieved by the department. The Chief Guest of the programme, Prof. Dharurkar lauded the efforts and endeavour of the department while offering his best wishes to the graduating students. The audience broke into thundering applause while he connected modern management theories of Frederic Taylor and Adam. Smith with Rabindranath Tages, and Gitta.

He highlighted the fact that Gitta and Upanishadas capture and soul of India and budding managers should imbibe the theories deep within to illuminate the world with the prowess of Indian Management theories for a sustainable environment. During the day's schedule, the first year students organized varous cultural programmes and games to engage with the seniors. The outgoing students and faculty members offered their share of experiences with the audience.

